HORSES WANTED

The Alberta Horse Breeders' Association desires information from all owners of horses for which they have no ready market, and which they would undertake to supply to provide meat to relieve the shortage of meat supply in countries where the residents are accustomed to using horse flesh as food.

Present indications justify the belief that a market for this class of horse may be provided if the owners in Alberta will undertake to supply same in sufficient numbers. Whether or not there is a market practically depends on the action of the owners themselves.

Kindly fill in the information below, cut same out and mail it to the undersigned.

All Were Elected By Acclamation

Monday last was nomination day for the positions of Mayor, Councillors, and School Trustees for the town of Didsbury.

There was no excitement over the matter but fortunately some good men were nominated and as there was no opposition they were all elected by acclamation.

Mr. J. M. Reed who has been an efficient member of the Council continuously for some years received the reward of the Mayoralty and will watch over the destinies of the town for the next two years.

The following gentlemen were elected to the Council and the two first are both new men: J. A. Ruby, R. I. Piles and Geo. Liesemer (second term).

The Council line-up is now as follows: J. M. Reed, Mayor; Councillors, P. R. Reed, I. Herber, Geo. Liesemer, J. A. Ruby, R. I. Piles, A. G. Howe.

The retiring School Trustees as follows: M. B. Atkins, J. V. Berscht and Parker R. Reed were all again nominated and were elected by acclamation.

Old Fashioned Politicians Getting Together

Two weeks ago a few of the Ontario Liberals got together at London, Ont., and gave Sir Wilfred Laurier a banquet, at which some arrangements were made to revive the former Liberal party all over Canada. Some of the former Liberals who are now Unionists refused invitations to the banquet in rather straight language stating that they did not think this was a time to resurrect old party lines.

In Toronto last week some of the old stand pat Conservatives gave Mr. Bob Rogers a banquet and there are signs that they also will try to come back in their old time style. As in the case of the Liberals some of the former Conservatives who are now Unionist members refused to accept invitations to attend and also gave some good reasons why old party lines should not be drawn again at this time.

A report is being circulated that some of the Liberal provincial premiers had a conference with Sir Wilfred at Ottawa a short time ago when they were having a meeting over reconstruction matters, and that they are ready to support Sir Wilfred.

Horses Wanted For Food Purposes

The Alberta Horse Breeders' Association has been requested to ascertain the number of horses that would be available in Alberta for food purposes at 5c per pound, f. o. b. owner's nearest station. Horses must be healthy and in good condition; old used up horses are not wanted. There are undoubtedly thousands of horses in Western Canada that are misfits, undersized and of very little commercial value that could be utilized to help supply meat for the millions of people in Europe who have been accustomed to eating horse flesh and whose meat supply is most seriously inadequate, and at the same time their use for this purpose would conserve a tremendous amount of fodder to be used in raising a better class of horses and other classes of live stock. In order to ascertain what quantity of horses might be available for this purpose, all owners who have horses of this class that they are willing to dispose of should write to E. L. Richardson, Secretary of the Alberta Horse Breeders' Association, Calgary, giving the information asked for in an advertisement appearing elsewhere in this issue, as to the number of animals, etc., that they would undertake to supply at 5c per pound f. o. b. their nearest station. It would appear as if a market might be opened up for this class of horse, if the owners of horses will show sufficient interest to notify the secretary of the numbers they will undertake to sell.

The case of furious driving laid against Norman Inglis when he knocked down and injured Mr. Bossart was tried a short time ago and a fine of $25 and costs were imposed. The case was a long time in being brought to trial as the accused had been travelling extensively and it was some time before he could be located.

The monthly allowance from the Patriotic Fund to all dependants has been increased substantially this month. This increase will be kept up until further notice and is for the purpose of meeting the higher cost of living. It will also help to provide a little better Christmas for the kiddies. Secretary Osmond has sent out cheques amounting to $219.00 for the month of December.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Youngs of the Dog Pound have received a letter from their brother George, the first since he was last reported wounded. He is at a hospital at Stourbridge, Eng. He was struck with an explosive bullet in the left thigh between the body and the knee which made a big hole in coming out. However, he is getting along fine and receiving splendid treatment and what is still better, although he did not know this at the time he wrote the letter, he will not have to go back to that living hell again.

The members of the Chapter of the Eastern Star gathered in the lodge rooms on Thursday evening last and presented Mrs. B. E. Spink, Secretary of the Chapter, with a fine gold chain and pendant with the emblem of the Order, in appreciation of her work since the organization of the chapter and because of her departure to take up her residence in the U. Two Kinds of Dollars

"A dollar thrown away is not as bright as a dollar put away," is an old proverb. Though people no longer hoard money in stockings, the principle is as true as it ever was. The dollar that is thrown away doesn't stay wholesome and useful. The dollar that is put away keeps its earning power and utility in time of need.

The future of Canada will depend on the dollars that are put away now. The great prosperity we are enjoying now cannot last forever. You may have dollars to throw away now; but if you do you will long some day for dollars to put away. Then the dollars the other fellow has put away will look mighty bright to you. Saving the dollars is common sense; and it is patriotism too. Start putting away the bright ones.

Clovers Thrive in Alberta

Every Year Seed in Increasing Quantities Is Being Produced

White, alsike and sweet clovers grow abundantly in the irrigated districts of Southern Alberta and in the central and northern parts of the province without irrigation. The prolificacy with which white clover grows in Central Alberta is especially noticeable in the residential parts of Edmonton, where the clover has overgrown the lawn grass on the borders of the streets, giving them a carpet of white throughout the summer. It spreads spontaneously and is perfectly hardy.

Alsike clover is a very hardy crop and is grown successfully in many parts of Alberta, with and without irrigation, both for hay and pasture. In Central Alberta it is frequently grown with timothy. South of Edmonton a farmer has a field of alsike which was planted eight years ago, the growth of which was thicker this year than with the first crop. This crop has passed the experimental stage and every year seed in increasing quantities is being produced.

Sweet clover was introduced into Alberta at a later date than the other two varieties mentioned, but it is being grown quite as successfully, and becoming increasingly popular among dairy farmers.

STRONG PEOPLE NEEDED

The need for people to be healthy is urgent. Those whom illness has put outside the ranks of robust men and women feel their position keenly. They are handicapped in every walk of life and weak men and nerve-worn women need more earnestly than ever to put their health right and become active and strong. Many who began "patching" months ago are as ill now as on the day they began vainly tinkering with common drugs. Every ailing man and woman should remember that the ills of debility, nerve exhaustion, indigestion, sleeplessness, neuralgia, and depression come from a faulty blood supply. Worry, over-work or other causes have impoverished the blood and left the life-stream impure. The nerves thereby are starving and the whole system is languishing for new blood. In this condition many thousands have won back strong nerves and new health and strength through the new rich blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make. In a weak or bloodless condition it is not only a waste of time and money, but also a further menace to your health to tinker with common drugs. Follow the example of so many thousands by giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial, and they will transform you into healthy, active, men and women.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Rugby School

The famous English school at Rugby, to which Tom Brown went and at which he had so many adventures, was founded in the year 1567. Or, at least, it was in that year that one Lawrence Sheriffe of London, grocer, started a free school at Rugby, which afterwards became the Rugby which we know today.

No More Asthma. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy sounds the death knell of this trying trouble. It stops the awful choking and painful breathing. It guards against night attacks and gives renewed ability to sleep and rest the whole night long. Much is claimed for this remedy, but nothing but what can be demonstrated by a trial. If you suffer from asthma try it and convince yourself of its great value.

Has Hardest Task

Individual Feats of Courage in Gouraud's Army

General Gouraud's army had and still has the hardest task of all the French armies. Innumerable feats of individual courage are recorded. One French soldier with an automatic rifle captured a complete German field gun battery. He crept up on the battery position by himself and shot all the gunners. A lieutenant, a sergeant and a private with automatic rifles, took a trench with 105 prisoners by making the Germans believe they had been outflanked in force.

A tribute to the skill and courage of an adversary was given in the last few days of a mortally wounded German officer who exclaimed to a French officer:

"You have fought magnificently. You will be in my country by Christmas. As a soldier I congratulate you."

Indians Aid Food Production
There will be approximately 100,000 acres of Saskatchewan land in the greater production scheme directed by the commissioner of the department of Indian affairs next year. This means a decided increase in the acreage cultivated by the Indians, who have shown a great willingness to work harder than they ever did before on their holdings, in view of the shortage of foodstuffs. The amount the Indians will seed to wheat next year is double their acreage this year.

In order to reach the highest point of perfection each of the new square Royal Yeast Cakes will be wrapped and sealed in waxed paper by machinery. This makes them practically airtight, and keeps them fresh longer.

They Wouldn't Believe Me

A party of sportsmen had been out all day big game hunting, and as they rested after their day's labors they spun yarns.

"Last time I was out here on this game," said the quiet man, "I met a magnificent lion almost face to face. With a terrible roar, the beast sprang at me, but just missed his aim by jumping two feet too high. Disappointed, it dashed away into the woods. The next day we set out to track the beast down, and at last came upon it in an open space in the jungle—practicing low jumps."

YES! MAGICALLY! CORNS LIFT OUT WITH FINGERS

You say to the drug store man, "Give me a small bottle of freezone." This will cost very little but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet.

A few drops of this new ether compound applied directly upon a tender, aching corn relieves the soreness instantly, and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, dries up and can be lifted off with the fingers.

This new way to rid one's feet of corns was introduced by a Cincinnati man, who says that free zone dries in a moment, and simply shrivels up the corn or callus without irritating the surrounding skin.

Don't let father die of infection or lockjaw from whitening at his corns, but clip this out and make him try it.

If you druggist hasn't any freezone tell him to order a small bottle from his wholesale drug house for you.

Toronto, Ont.—"I found 'Favorite Prescription' a splendid tonic for women. Some time ago I became all run-down, weak, nervous and could not eat or sleep. Had severe backaches, pains in my right side. I took Favorite Prescription and it completely built me up in health and relieved me of all the annoying pains and aches."—Mrs. THOMAS GRANTHAM, 425 Front St. Niagara Falls, Ont.—"During middle age, I began to go down in health. I would become dizzy, black spots would appear before my eyes. I also suffered with severe pains in the back of my head and my back would ache continually. I was most miserable when I began taking Favorite Prescription, but by its use I came through this critical period in a good healthy condition. It is a splendid medicine for women at this time of life."

Canada's Army Corps Second To None

Dominant Factor in Success Is Team Play

Major General Mewburn, minister of militia, in an address to the army and navy veterans at the Central Canada Exhibition, said that the Canadian army corps in France is the strongest striking force, bar none.

"This is admitted by officials of the highest rank, and their records have proved it at Arras, Amiens and other points to which they were moved," he said. "Our casualties have been heavy, but, thank God, there were men in the reinforcing pools in France to fill every gap, and the pools were re-filled from the corps in England."

General Mewburn said the Canadian corps had developed many geniuses and paid high tribute to the work of General Stewart, of the railway troops, who, he said, would shortly be appointed director of the whole transportation system in France and Flanders.

"The dominant factor in the success of our corps is the team play," declared the minister. "In General Currie we have a big man in every sense of the word. He is idolized by every man under him. All are war-weary, war-tired, but determined to see it through to a successful conclusion."

The Effect of Moonlight

It was at the seashore and they were sitting on the beach while the moon shone beautifully on the surging waves.

His Mother's Keepsake

In the midst of a battle one young lieutenant, running into a pal of his, showed him under the flap of his pocket a little gold brooch.

"If anything should happen to me," he said, "try to get hold of this pin, will you, and when you get time ship it back to my mother."

The other promised, and the lieutenant went his way. He had not gone twenty feet when he was struck by a shell and killed instantly. The pin is on its way to the United States.

A Poor Picture

The teacher had sketched on the blackboard what purported to be a deer. As the class did not readily respond to the request to reveal the identity of the animal the teacher sought to prompt them.

"Now, Tommy," she said, turning to the boy at the bottom of the class, "come, what does your father call your mother?"

"Garn," came the reply; "you can't fool me; that's no old cat!"

Australian Carbide Plant

Turning Out a Product of Superior Quality

In view of the shortage of carbide in Australia, importance is attached to the steps taken in Tasmania by the Hydro-Electric Power and Metallurgical Company, Ltd., for the manufacture of that product. The plant, which recently commenced operations, is capable of turning out 5,000 tons a year, 3,500 horse power of electric current, supplied by the government electric power works, being used in the kiln. Swedish carbide previously held the distinction of being the best in the world, but the Tasmanian article is claimed to be greatly superior. The consumption of carbide in Australia is 13,000 tons a year, and as soon as circumstances permit, the Tasmanian plant is to be duplicated. A Swedish expert is in charge of the operations.

BEWARE OF THE AGITATOR.

Pro-Germanism isn't dead by any means. They are again beginning to use propaganda to cause unrest and dissatisfaction all over Canada and the United States. After all the shameful and diabolical actions and suffering caused by the German nation during the last four years there is absolutely no sympathy coming to them nor should their supporters be allowed to let a peep out of them. Signs are not wanting that one of their methods of procedure is to cause dissatisfaction with the Union government so that during the forthcoming stressful period of reconstruction Canada will suffer internal dissension and suffer still more. This is still a time when the loyal people of Canada must hold together to avoid confusion and chaos. If you hear somebody railing against the government or trying to create a sympathy for the defeated enemy just size up that person and cast your mind over the last four years and if they have had the slightest taint of pro-Germanism tell them what you think. Every person has a right to discuss political questions excepting those who have the taint of disloyalty to Canada; they should keep their heads down.

"We have not heard from Lawrence yet and do not understand it. Can you do anything to set our fears at rest?"

"I'm sorry I can't," said Foster, who, seeing he must deal with the matter boldly, asked Featherstone: "Have you any ground for believing I have not been frank?"

"It is an awkward question. You are our guest and my son sent you to us. I must add that we had begun to like you for your own sake; but I have grounds for supposing that you kept something back. To begin with, Daly, whom you told us you meant to mislead, was here again yesterday."

"Did you give way to his demands? It's important that I should know." Featherstone hesitated, and Foster saw where his suspicions led, but for the next moment or two he was absorbed by speculations about Daly's visit. Then Alice looked at her father with a smile.

"You can tell Mr. Foster. It's obvious that if he was in league with the fellow he would have no need to ask."

"I did not give way," said Featherstone. "He must have seen that I was determined, because after the first I thought he did not press me very hard."

"Ah!" said Foster; "that was curious, but we'll let it go in the meantime. I suppose there is something else?"

"Since you left, the police have paid me another visit. They asked some rather strange questions, besides inquiring where you were."

"Which you couldn't tell them?"

"I didn't know," Featherstone rejoined pointedly, and Foster saw that Alice had said nothing about his recent visit. She gave him an inquiring glance, as if she wondered why he did not state his reasons for going to Newcastle, but he looked as unobservant as he could. He could not signal her, because while this might escape his host's notice he was afraid of Mrs. Featherstone.

"Well," he said, "it might be better if you, so to speak, formulated your suspicions and made a definite charge. After all, I'm entitled to hear it."

"I do so most unwillingly, but for an explanation is needed. To begin with we had one short letter from my son, stating that he could not come home but you would tell us how he was getting on. This was all; he said nothing about Daly or his starting east with you. You arrived with his portmanteau and what I now think is a rather curious story. Then, after Dal wrote, you suggested an extraordinary plan, which, as the fellow came here, has not worked very well. Besides, the police have made inquiries about you and there's something mysterious about your journeys. I do not think they were all intended to mislead Daly."

"All this is true," Foster admitted. "But you haven't stated the conclusions you draw from it."

"The conclusions are vague but disturbing. Lawrence trusted you and, you tell us, started with you for a place he did not intend to reach. Since then he has vanished. It is possible that you have deceived both him and us."

"That's rather absurd," Alice remarked. "I really don't think Mr. Foster would make a very dangerous plotter, and you admitted that Lawrence trusted him."

"I did," Featherstone rejoined.

sharply, as if he resented the interruption. "Still I don't see your argument."

"She means that Lawrence is not a simpleton," Mrs. Featherstone interposed. "For myself, I doubt if Mr. Foster could deceive him."

"We'll go on," Featherstone resumed, turning to Foster. "There was a very mysterious affair at Gardner's Crossing shortly before you left and some valuable bonds were missing."

Foster's face got red, but he laughed. "This is too much, sir! If your suspicions went so far, why did you not tell the police?"

"Ah!" said Featherstone with some awkwardness, "there you have met me at a disadvantage! While Daly has the power to injure Lawrence, I must keep the police in the dark." He paused and added: "I cannot say I believed you reckoned on this."

"Thank you," said Foster, but Alice broke in:

"Why don't you tell my father why you went to Newcastle?"

Featherstone gave her a surprised glance and then turned to Foster. "It looks as if my daughter was better informed than me. There is obviously something I do not know about."

"There is; but I must ask Miss Featherstone to respect my confidence in the meantime," Foster answered, and getting up, stood silent for a few moments, resting his hand on his chair.

He saw restrained curiosity in Mrs. Featherstone's face and her husband's anger, while he thought Alice knew how significant the line she had taken looked. She had boldly admitted that he knew her well enough to trust her with his secrets, and declared herself on his side. In the meantime, he was conscious of a strain that he thought the others felt and was sorry for Featherstone. He could not resent the man's anxiety about his son. For all that, he did not mean to tell him why he had gone to Newcastle. It would not make a plausible tale.

"I must own that thinks look bad for me," he said. "I can't offer any explanation that would satisfy you and could not expect you to take my word that I mean well. All I can do is to frighten off Daly and then find Lawrence, and I'm going to try."

"It doesn't matter much about Daly now. But if you can find Lawrence, you will clear yourself."

Alice turned to her father with an angry sparkle in her eyes. "That's a very grudging concession for us to make. We will not blame Mr. Foster when he has proved that it's impossible for him to be guilty."

The tension was too great for any of them to be much surprised at her outbreak and Featherstone said dully, "It's logical."

"Logical!" Alice exclaimed in a scornful tone. "Do you expect Mr. Foster to be satisfied with that, after what he has borne and the risks he has run for us? Now, when things look bad for him, is the time for you to show your trust and knowledge of character?"

"You imply that your judgment is better than mine?" Featherstone rejoined, but without heat.

"I know an honest man," Alice said quietly, with some color in her face.

There was silence for a few moments and by an effort of self-control Foster kept his face unmoved. He did not mean to let the others see the exultant satisfaction the girl's statement had given him. Featherstone brooded with knitted brows and a troubled look. Then he said:

"You will understand, Mr. Foster, that this has been a painful interview to my wife and me. You were our guest and my son's friend; but I do not know what has happened and we have no news of him. If you can bring him back, I will ask your forgiveness for all that I have said."

The Kaiser's Joke

Turning Pantomime to Tragedy for His Country and the World

The kaiser is the gentlest soul who ever (by proxy) "scuttled ship or cut a throat." His fine sense of humanity is outraged because the allies have dropped bombs on the "open town" of Frankfurt. The All Highest is a good stock actor, and in his time has played many parts. Late in his variegated career he has displayed great natural gifts as the Demon King, turning pantomime to tragedy for his country and the world. This sinister mountebank has gloried in atrocities that would have made a Borgia shudder. The supreme jest of the Demon King was the bombing of undefended English towns. It is a long time since we suggested that there should be an interchange of courtesies in this respect. The kaiser has no sense of humor. He cannot see the other side of his own joke.—London Daily Express.

Wool Consumed in August

Manufacturers used a million and a half more pounds of wool in August than in July, 1918, the department of agriculture reports. August figures being 63,900,000 pounds, grease equivalent, compared to 62,300,000 in July. Monthly consumption has averaged about 67,000,000 pounds, grease equivalent, since January 1, 1918.

Good Value and How to Get it

YOUR interest, as a member of the consuming public, and yours as Canada's largest manufacturers of shoes, are really identical. They may be summed up in a single phrase: "Quality Shoes at Fair Prices."

A fair price today is a higher price than usual, because the cost of every item of material and labor which goes into a pair of shoes has increased greatly and is still increasing.

In order that you may continue to get quality at fair prices, we shall feature in advertisements certain specific shoes which we know will give you good value. From our knowledge and experience, we will suggest to you the best methods of buying, whether you select shoes of our manufacture or not.

We ask you to buy for service rather than merely for style; to go to a reliable dealer, and to look for the manufacturer's trade-mark on the shoes. By so doing you may be assured of good value for your money.

The World's Largest Boot

A United States shoemaker recently hit upon the idea of advertising his wares by the construction of a colossal boot. It weighs five hundred pounds, stands seven and a half feet in height, is fourteen and a half feet in length, with a sole four feet eight inches in width. It is, in fact, fourteen times as large as an ordinary shoe, and, needless to say, is a size that is not stocked. A sample boot is seen resting on the giant. As already stated, it was for advertising purposes, and in the town where it is to be seen has certainly attracted a fair share of attention.

Eddy's Fibre wash-tubs are easy to lift and easy to carry. They keep the water hot a long time because they do not radiate heat as galvanized iron or tin will do. They cannot leak, because they are made in one piece, without joint or seam. And the cost is actually less because they will outlast several of the old-fashioned kinds of wash-tubs.

Eddy's Twin Beaver Washboards save time by the special crimp which loosens the dirt easily. A washing surface on each side gives them double the efficiency of the ordinary washboard.

What has made the King intensely popular with the somewhat republican workmen of the north of England is his love of pigeon flying. His majesty has bred some magnificent carrier pigeons, and his birds are renowned amongst fanciers. The interest that is taken in the north in pigeon flying is enormous, and the knowledge King George possesses of the sport has made the rough colliers and ironworkers he has met on his frequent visits to the industrial north more pleased with his majesty than anything else he has said or done.

A Soldier at Twelve

A smart looking lad, who it was said, had enlisted when he was 12 years, appeared at the Guildhall, London. His name was George Dorrington, and he was charged as an absentee from the 14th South Lancashire regiment. He gave his age as 19, but it was said he was now only 16 years. On the sleeve of his tunic he had two wound stripes and the red and three blue ribbon chevrons. It was mentioned that he was wounded in the retreat from Mons, and had fought at Ypres. Dorrington, who admitted that he had overstayed his leave, was handed over to an escort.

Eighty Thousand Grocery Stores

Do Not Locate on Main Thoroughfares

Strangers in London often comment on the dearth of grocers' shops. Dry goods (drapers) shops there are "ad nauseam," and jewellers, and chemists, but if you want to buy a little homely packet of blue or a bottle of vinegar, it is really quite difficult to find a shop that keeps it. The reason, of course, is that grocers do not set up shops in the main thoroughfares, and not that there is a scarcity of them. In fact, there are in England over 80,000 retail grocers' shops. There are 5,000 co-operative stores which serve 10,000,000 customers; 10,000 multiple shops supplying 7,000,000 customers; 70,000 small shops with a roll of 24,000,000 customers, and a large number of the old-fashioned family grocers. These figures show the magnitude of the rationing problem, and suggests that credit is due not only to the ministry of food, but to the wholesale houses and retailers for the smooth way in which the public have been supplied.

The Best Liver Pill.—The action of the liver is easily disarranged. A sudden chill, undue exposure to the elements, over-indulgence in some favorite food, excess in drinking, are a few of the causes. They are the leading liver pills and they have no superiors among such preparations.

Honey Industry Developing

Wonderful Opportunity for Expansion in This Line

Though the industry has not yet developed into a very large one, many farmers in Western Canada have brought their production of honey to a very successful stage. In the alfalfa and clover fields in the irrigated areas there is a wonderful opportunity for expansion in this line, as the success of a few leaders shows. Messrs. Terrill and Kerr, the result of whose experiment in the growth of tomatoes under irrigation on a commercial scale was mentioned in Western Canada Week by Week of September 14, claim that much of their success with this crop is attributable to the presence of bees among the plants. Mr. Kerr, the owner of the farm, expects to have half a ton of beautiful pure alfalfa honey this year from thirty hives, and hopes very soon to develop a hundred hive apiary.

Hats Off to the Swiss

Men and Women Give Food Out of Their Own Short Supplies

The war is teaching us better about Switzerland, as about other countries. It is not as though a vast, incredibly rich, exuberantly resourceful land bestowed its largess on the horde of the wounded and the famishing and the expatriated. Switzerland is small and comparatively poor, and overcrowded. Yet Switzerland is giving all that she has—(this is very important) all that is given to Switzerland to be given out again. Here is a capable clearing house, a tireless distributing agency. The cross that Switzerland carries (for every small nation has carried its cross in this war) is the Red Cross. When these dear, good Swiss women and men give bread and apples, coffee and chocolate to those who lean on their tender mercies, they are taking food out of their own mouths and from their own children. — Philadelphia Public Ledger.

One dose of Miller's Worm Powders will clear the stomach and bowels of worms, so that the child will no more be troubled by their ravages. The powders are sweet to the taste and no child will object to taking them. One of the foremost cattle ranches of Manitoba has just begun its annual movement of cattle, the first train, consisting of thirty cars of stock, having passed through the Union stockyards at Winnipeg last week, presumably on the way to Great Britain. This is the first part of a total consignment of one hundred and fifty cars—or approximately two thousand seven hundred head of stock—which it is reported will be forwarded overseas from this ranch. This number represents a large increase over the total of last year's consignment, which consisted of 1,500 head. In past years these cattle have always been sent to Chicago.

A Complete List of Hospital Helpers

Didsbury, Nov. 30th, 1918.

To the Editor,
PIONEER, Didsbury, Alberta.

Dear Sir:—

The writer, as Chairman of the Temporary Hospital Board, feels it his duty to make a much more complete report as to the staff and voluntary workers during the recent influenza epidemic, than which was published in your paper of the 27th November.

The very few volunteers mentioned certainly did not receive more credit than was their due, but there were many others who deserve like mention.

The following is a list prepared by Mrs. Edwards, Matron, and the writer, who were both in very close touch at all times, and we feel that the list is quite complete. If any volunteers' names are omitted, we humbly beg their pardon, as it will be merely an oversight.

Miss E. Riddell, Miss N. Lantz, Miss M. Freeman, Mrs. Geo. Watson, Mrs. Eph. Shantz, Miss Clara Bennett, Mrs. Robert Martin, Miss Ruby Weber, Mrs. H. W. Chambers, Mrs. Geo. Smith, Mrs. A. G. Studer, Miss Bessie Moyle, Miss Jean Edwards, Messrs. A. Folsom, Geo. Madden, A. R. Kendrick, Rev. D. MacGregor, H. B. Atkins, R. B. Martin, G. B. Sexsmith, H. Roeth, A. F. Kennedy, W. J. Hillyard, R. Anderson, Geo. Watson, R. Vogel, J. Mjolsness, Mr. Moran, E. Morrison, A. W. Axtell, W. Melton, J. A. Ruby, O. H. Moore, H. Storey, H. Reiber, A. Liesemer.

The paid staff, whose services deserve no less recognition, as they gave their whole time and energy to the welfare of the patients in their charge, and risked their own health, administering unto others—any of these people would have received as much or more remuneration in their general vocations:

Mrs. Edwards, Matron; Mrs. Rude, Miss Vogel, Mrs. Roper; Mrs. Burgess, Calgary; Messrs. Roper, J. Rempel.

Pearce, J. Sargent, D. Edwards, Ed. Oldham.

We also feel that the untiring services rendered by Mr. Hermanson, Janitor of the school, is deserving of special mention, as he only received his usual remuneration from the school district.

Mrs. Osmond, President of the local Red Cross Society, also gave great service in procuring pneumonia jackets, and other supplies badly needed, which were impossible to obtain locally.

The writer also feels that Messrs. A. Folsom and D. Edwards deserve special mention, as they were the first two men to take the actual nursing in hand.

There were also many other women of both the town and country too numerous to mention who responded most liberally in supplying delicacies and food for the patients and nurses in charge. There were also many other men who assisted. In fact there were very few real slackers.

Thanking you for this space, I remain,
Yours very truly,

PARKER K. REED,
Chairman, Temporary Hospital Board, Didsbury, Alberta.

[We have received at last a complete list of those who actually helped to make the temporary hospital a success thereby no doubt saving some lives during the epidemic. The PIONEER has no apologies to offer for publishing the few names it did in last week's issue as they were all that were given at that time, but wishes to state that this is what was wanted from the first, as complete a record as possible with official thanks to those who so ably assisted during that time of trouble and we take much pleasure in publishing the above letter and closing this incident. In justice to Mr. R. B. Martin it should be stated that he did not give up his own name or that of Mrs. Martin for publication last week.—Editor.]

A Splendid Story of Sympathy

The following story was written by Irvin Cobb in a recent issue of the Saturday Evening Post. Mr. Cobb has been a correspondent for the Post at the front since the war started and his graphic first hand reports of conditions as he found them have made very interesting reading. The following is a clipping from his description of the different temperaments found amongst the Allies.

"The Frenchman takes no shame to himself when he weeps or sings in public on being stirred; the Yankee is apt to laugh very loudly; the Englishman will be mute and will exhibit slight confusion, which by some might be mistaken for mental awkwardness. But there are exceptions to all rules.

So far as the rule pertains to the Britisher I am thinking of two exceptions. To one of these instances I was an eyewitness; the other incident was told to me by a man who was present when it occurred.

He said he was passing through Charing Cross Station one night when he saw a couple of Canadian subalterns emerging from one of the refreshment booths. Both of them had been wounded. One had his right arm in a sling and limped as he walked. The other was that most pitiable spectacle this war can produce—a young man blinded. Across his eyes was drawn a white cloth band and he moved with the uncertain fumbling gait of one upon whom this affliction has newly come.

With his uninjured arm the lame youth was steering his companion. The two boys—for they were only boys, my informant said—halted in an arched exit to put on their top coats before stepping out into the drizzle. The crippled officer released his hold upon his friend's elbow to shrug his own garment upon his shoulders.

The second blisse was making a sorry job at finding the armholes of his coat when a handsome elderly officer, with the badges of a major general upon his shoulders and a breast loaded with ribbon decorations, stepped up and, with the words, "Let me help you, won't you?" held the coat in the proper position while deftly he guided the blind boy's arms into the sleeve openings.

In a second the unexpected denouement came. The youngster reached in to his pocket; then felt for the hand of this volunteer who had come to his assistance. "Thank you very much!" he said; and there in the palm of the astonished general lay a shilling.

The other lieutenant, the youth with the bandaged arm, stumbled to his comrade's side. He may have meant to whisper, but in his distress he fairly shouted it out:

"You've just handed a tip to a major general!"

Horried, the blind boy spun about on his heel to apologise.

"I'm so sorry, sir!" he gasped.

"I—I thought it was a porter, of course. I beg your pardon—a thousand times, sir. I hope you'll forgive me—you know, I can't see any more, sir." And with that he held out his hand to take back the miserable coin.

The splendid-looking old man put his hands upon the lad's shoulders. His ruddy face was quivering and the tears were running down his cheeks.

"Please don't! Please don't!" he gulped almost incoherently. "I want to keep your shilling, if you don't mind. Why, God bless you, my son, I want to keep it always. I wouldn't take a thousand pounds for it!"

And then, falling back one pace, he saluted the blind lad with all the reverence he would have accorded his commander in chief or his king.
